SANKALP

Organised by Yi Yuva in association with Bhadraka College of Commerce and Arts

Date: 15th February, 2025

Time: 10.30am- 3.00 pm

Venue: St Ann's College of Women, Mehdipatnam

Attended by 10 student coordinators and 2 faculty members. List attached.

Mrs. A. Vijayarani, Principal of St. Ann's College for Women, delivered an inspiring speech on thinking globally while acting locally. She emphasized women's empowerment, the role of young minds in shaping a quality world, and the importance of values like integrity, honesty, and kindness. Encouraging the audience to embrace good values and global responsibility, she urged them to contribute to a better future. Her words serve as a reminder that by fostering strong ethics and empowerment, we can create a more just and prosperous world.

P. Agarwal, Yuva Chairperson, delivered a compelling speech on child and environmental protection, emphasizing the need for safeguarding children's rights and fostering a sustainable future. He stressed collective action to preserve natural resources and reduce pollution while advocating for leadership, internships, and social interaction as key drivers of personal and societal growth.

Aswin Agarwal, Yi Yuva Campus Chairperson, highlighted the Yi Yuva initiative's role in empowering youth and fostering leadership. He underscored the importance of quality education for rural children, calling for efforts to bridge the educational gap and ensure equal learning opportunities. Both speakers inspired action toward a safer, greener, and more inclusive future.

Dr. Chandrashekar D. V.'s Insights on Leadership

Dr. Chandrashekar D. V., Vice Principal of the Vivekananda Institute of Technology, shared profound insights on leadership, focusing on empowerment, belief, and integrity. He emphasized that true leaders inspire and elevate others, creating an environment where everyone feels valued and capable.

A key theme of his speech was the role of belief in leadership. He stated, “Belief is the gap between what you say and what you do,” highlighting the importance of authenticity and consistency. Leaders must back their words with actions to build trust and credibility. He also stressed the need to stand firm in one’s principles, remarking, “When you don’t stand for anything, you will fall for everything.” A strong moral foundation, he asserted, ensures that leaders remain unwavering in their purpose.

Dr. Chandrashekar discussed the power of influence, explaining that effective leadership is about inspiring and mobilizing others. Leaders must be able to persuade and build consensus while maintaining responsibility in their influence. Additionally, he emphasized self-conviction, stating, “You should be able to convince yourself before persuading others.” Confidence in one’s vision inspires trust and respect among followers.

He also underscored the importance of resolve and effort in achieving success, urging leaders to persist despite challenges. Leadership, he noted, is not just about having a vision but relentlessly working toward it. He concluded by advising aspiring leaders to clarify their beliefs before time runs out, as clear values guide decision-making and ensure long-term impact.

Dr. Chandrashekar’s words serve as a powerful reminder that leadership is about empowering, believing, influencing, and persevering with integrity. By embodying these qualities, leaders can drive meaningful change and create a lasting impact.

Health

Suprithi, Yi Yuva Chairperson for Health, emphasized the importance of self-care, highlighting India’s rising diabetes rates due to lifestyle pressures. She reminded the audience that prioritizing personal well-being is essential for overall health and effective leadership.

Accessibility

Shrey Agarwal, Accessibility Chairperson, along with Co-Chairpersons Tanish, Ashish, and Rohit, advocated for specially-abled individuals, noting that they make up nearly 10% of the population. They discussed the National Common Minimum Program and the UDID initiative, which enhance accessibility and inclusion. Their efforts included promoting sign language education, skill development, and infrastructural improvements to empower specially-abled individuals.

Climate Action

Aparajitha and the Climate Change wing introduced the Jal-Thal Scheme, focusing on pond restoration (Jal) to stabilize water cycles and reduce natural disasters, and Miyawaki forest plantations (Thal) to enhance biodiversity. They also emphasized E-waste collection drives to promote sustainability.

Through their initiatives, these leaders showcased practical solutions for health, inclusion, and environmental sustainability, inspiring collective action for a better future.

Child Safety

Pooja Lalwani addressed the critical issue of child sexual abuse, highlighting its alarming prevalence and the urgent need for collective action. She stressed that protecting vulnerable children requires a united effort from society. Quoting “collective voices, collective work,” she urged communities to raise awareness and advocate for stronger preventive measures. Pooja emphasized the necessity of robust support systems, educational initiatives, and survivor assistance programs to combat abuse effectively. Her call to action reinforced the importance of ensuring a safe and nurturing environment for children.

Road Safety

Poornima Saraf, from Yi Yuva’s Road Safety Wing, introduced three impactful initiatives aimed at promoting road safety and emergency response:

- Chota Cop: A program designed to educate children on road safety, encouraging them to influence their families and practice safe habits. Through interactive workshops and school partnerships, it aims to instill lifelong awareness and accident prevention.

- Farishtey: A volunteer-driven initiative that encourages bystanders to assist accident victims. By providing first aid training and using a mobile app for quick response, it ensures timely support for those in need.
- EMRI First Responder: A CPR training program equipping individuals with lifesaving emergency skills. Conducted in collaboration with medical experts, it teaches CPR, AED use, and first aid to improve survival rates in critical situations.

These initiatives emphasize education, community involvement, and proactive measures to create safer roads and ensure immediate help in emergencies. Through awareness and skill development, Yi Yuva is working towards reducing road accidents and saving lives.

Entrepreneurship: Fostering Future Leaders

Entrepreneurship drives innovation, economic growth, and societal progress by transforming ideas into reality. Various initiatives provide hands-on experience, nurture entrepreneurial skills, and promote social entrepreneurship.

Internship Opportunities

Internships equip future entrepreneurs with practical experience, industry exposure, networking, and mentorship. These opportunities help develop essential skills and insights needed for entrepreneurial success.

ENT Program: Engage-Nurture-Training

The ENT program is structured into three phases:

- Engage: Introduces students to the startup ecosystem through expert interactions and live projects.
- Nurture: Offers workshops on business planning, market research, and financial management, supported by experienced mentors.
