A career guidance session was successfully conducted to enlighten students of B. Pharm Third year, on opportunities after GPAT,NIPER.

Mr. Ch. Uma Shankar

Entrepreneur, Skills Trainer, Business Consultant, Managing Director, Es Pharma

GPAT is more than just an exam. From an industry standpoint, a high GPAT score is a benchmark of foundational knowledge and aptitude. It acts as a primary filter, indicating that a candidate possesses the academic rigor and strong grasp of core concepts necessary for advanced roles in the pharmaceutical field.

M. Pharm provides critical specialization. While a B. Pharm, degree offers a broad understanding, an M. Pharm enables deep specialization in high-demand areas like pharmaceuticals, pharmacology, quality assurance, or pharmaceutical chemistry. This specialized knowledge directly aligns with specific job roles within the industry, making M. Pharm graduates significantly more marketable and prepared for technical and research-oriented positions.

Dr. TVR Upendra

Academic Consultant, Pharma Industry Expert, GPAT Topper-2012

The combination creates a competitive advantage. Together, a strong GPAT score and an M. Pharm degree demonstrate to employers that a candidate is not only intelligent and dedicated but also equipped with the specialized expertise required to innovate and solve complex problems in a highly regulated and rapidly evolving industry. This journey is a direct path to
