DAY-WISE PROGRAM DETAILS

DAY 1: FUNDAMENTALS OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE & DIGITAL LEARNING PLATFORMS

The first day focused on building a strong conceptual foundation in Artificial Intelligence and familiarizing students with globally recognized digital learning platforms.

1. Introduction to Artificial Intelligence (AI)

The inaugural technical session began with an overview of Artificial Intelligence, covering its definition, evolution, and growing importance in today's technology-driven world. The session highlighted the journey of AI from traditional rule-based systems to intelligent, learning-driven models.

Emphasis was placed on real-life applications of AI, including healthcare diagnostics, virtual assistants, recommendation systems, automated decision-making, and pharmaceutical research. The role of AI across various industries, particularly healthcare, pharmaceuticals, education, finance, and manufacturing, was discussed in detail, enabling students to understand the interdisciplinary relevance of AI in their professional careers.

2. IBM Registration and IBM SkillsBuild Orientation

Students were introduced to the IBM SkillsBuild platform, an industry-oriented learning initiative by IBM. The session elaborated on:

- Objectives of IBM SkillsBuild
- Benefits of IBM SkillsBuild for students, including free access to AI-focused courses and skill development modules
- Step-by-step guidance on IBM account registration
- Navigation through courses, learning pathways, and assessment modules

All participating students successfully registered and explored available learning resources, marking their first step towards industry-recognized certification.

3. Types of Artificial Intelligence

This session provided clarity on the classification of AI systems, including:

- Narrow AI (Weak AI) – designed for specific tasks
- General AI (Strong AI) – capable of human-like reasoning (conceptual stage)
- Super AI – theoretical AI surpassing human intelligence

Relevant examples were discussed to help students clearly differentiate between the types and understand their practical relevance.

4. Types of Data in AI Systems

Students were educated on the importance of data as the backbone of AI systems, with discussions on:

- Structured data used in databases
- Unstructured data such as images, text, and videos
- Semi-structured data including XML and JSON files

The session emphasized how data quality, type, and structure directly influence AI model accuracy and performance.

5. Credly Registration for Digital Certification

The concluding session of Day 1 introduced students to the Credly digital credential platform. Participants learned about:

- The significance of digital certificates and badges
- How Credly supports professional visibility and employability
- Step-by-step Credly account registration
- Procedures for receiving, storing, and sharing certificates on professional platforms

DAY 2: ADVANCED AI CONCEPTS & PRACTICAL EXPOSURE

1. Recap Quiz (Wayground Platform)

The day began with an interactive recap quiz conducted through the Wayground platform, reinforcing Day 1 concepts and encouraging active participation.

2. Deep Learning

Students were introduced to the fundamentals of deep learning, including:

- Concept of neural networks
- Layers, training, and learning mechanisms
- Applications of deep learning in image recognition, speech processing, and healthcare

3. Large Language Models (LLMs)

This session covered:

- Introduction to Large Language Models
- Understanding how LLMs process and generate human-like text
- Applications of LLMs in education, research, content generation, and automation

4. Natural Language Processing (NLP)

Participants learned about:

- Basics of Natural Language Processing
- Text analysis, sentiment analysis, and language translation
- Role of NLP in chatbots, search engines, and virtual assistants
