TOPIC: ANTI-RAGGING AWARENESS PROGRAMME (Building a ragging free campus) – induction programme

Students attended: B.pharm 1st yr and Pharm - D 1st yr admitted students: AY: 2026- 27 (batch: 1704- 26- 881).

Venue: SNVPMV Auditorium

Date & Time: 9th November 2026, 11:30 AM – 12:30 PM

1. Introduction

Ragging is a serious social and institutional concern that adversely affects the physical, psychological, emotional, and academic well-being of students. It creates an atmosphere of fear, discrimination, humiliation, and insecurity, particularly among newly admitted students. Recognizing the harmful consequences of ragging, the University Grants Commission (UGC) introduced the UGC Regulations on Curbing the Menace of Ragging in Higher Educational Institutions, 2009, to prohibit ragging and establish preventive, monitoring, and grievance-redressal mechanisms in educational institutions.

In this regard, an Anti-Ragging Awareness Programme was organized to sensitize students and institutional stakeholders about the consequences of ragging, relevant UGC regulations, institutional responsibilities, reporting mechanisms, and the importance of maintaining a safe, inclusive, and respectful campus environment.

The awareness programme was presented by Dr. S. Hemalatha, Professor and Head of Department and Member Secretary of the Anti-Ragging Committee. The presentation emphasized the collective responsibility of students, faculty members, non-teaching staff, parents, and institutional authorities in preventing ragging and promoting positive student relationships.

2. Objectives of the Programme

The major objectives of the Anti-Ragging Awareness Programme were:

1. To create awareness among students about the definition, forms, and consequences of ragging.
2. To educate students about the UGC Regulations, 2009, and the legal provisions prohibiting ragging in higher educational institutions.
3. To sensitize students regarding the physical, psychological, emotional, and academic consequences of ragging.

4. To establish awareness about the disciplinary and legal actions applicable to individuals involved in ragging.
5. To familiarize students with the functions and responsibilities of the Anti-Ragging Committee and Anti-Ragging Squad.
6. To communicate the available complaint-reporting mechanisms, institutional contacts, and national anti-ragging helpline facilities.
7. To encourage students to report incidents of ragging without fear and support affected students.
8. To promote healthy interaction between freshers and senior students through mentoring and supportive peer relationships.
9. To strengthen institutional mechanisms for the prevention, monitoring, investigation, and redressal of ragging-related complaints.
10. To develop a safe, inclusive, disciplined, and student-friendly academic environment.

3. Major Topics Covered During the Programme

3.1 Definition and Understanding of Ragging

The presentation explained ragging according to the UGC Regulations, 2009. Ragging refers to any conduct by an individual student or group of students that causes physical or psychological harm, fear, shame, embarrassment, or humiliation to another student.

The following activities were identified as forms of ragging:

- Teasing, verbal abuse, threats, and intimidation.
- Physical assault, injury, wrongful restraint, or confinement.
- Psychological harassment, humiliation, and emotional intimidation.
- Online bullying and harassment through electronic communication.
- Forcing students to perform activities against their will.
- Financial extortion and exploitation.
- Sexual harassment and other criminal acts.

Students were made aware that ragging is not limited to physical violence; verbal, psychological, digital, and other forms of harassment are also punishable.

3.2 Objectives of UGC Anti-Ragging Regulations, 2009

The programme highlighted the primary objectives of the UGC regulations:

- Prohibition of ragging in all higher educational institutions.
- Prevention of ragging through appropriate institutional measures.
- Establishment of effective grievance-redressal mechanisms.

- Prescription of disciplinary and punitive measures against individuals involved in ragging.
- Development of a safe, supportive, and respectful educational environment.

3.3 Legal and Institutional Framework

The presentation emphasized that every higher educational institution must establish appropriate institutional mechanisms to prevent and address ragging.

The mandatory institutional measures discussed included:

- Formation of an Anti-Ragging Committee.
- Establishment of an Anti-Ragging Squad.
- Display of anti-ragging information and helpline numbers at prominent locations.
- Conducting awareness and orientation programmes for newly admitted students.
- Providing counselling and student-support services.
- Ensuring prompt reporting and appropriate action in serious incidents.

These measures are intended to ensure institutional accountability and strengthen the overall safety of the campus.

3.4 Punishments for Ragging

Students were informed about the disciplinary actions prescribed under the UGC Regulations, 2009.

Depending on the nature and severity of the incident, the following penalties may be imposed:

- Warning, reprimand, or censure.
- Imposition of fines.
- Withholding scholarships, fellowships, or other institutional benefits.
- Debarring students from representing the institution in various events and competitions.
- Suspension or expulsion from hostel facilities.
- Cancellation of admission.
- Rustication for one to four semesters.
- Expulsion from the institution and debarment from admission to another institution for a specified period.

Where ragging involves criminal offences, appropriate legal action, including police complaints and FIR proceedings, may also be initiated.

The presentation emphasized that students who actively or passively support ragging or participate in a conspiracy to promote it may also face disciplinary action. The applicable penalty depends on the facts of the case, its severity, and the relevant institutional and legal provisions, subject to due process.

3.5 Responsibilities of the Anti-Ragging Committee

The Anti-Ragging Committee plays an important role in ensuring the effective implementation of anti-ragging policies.

Its major responsibilities include:

- Formulating and reviewing the institutional Anti-Ragging Policy.
- Ensuring compliance with UGC regulations.
- Creating awareness among students, parents, faculty, and staff.
- Monitoring campus premises, hostels, transportation facilities, and other student-accessible areas.
- Coordinating with the Anti-Ragging Squad.
- Receiving and investigating complaints.
- Recommending appropriate disciplinary action.
- Protecting victims and witnesses and maintaining confidentiality wherever necessary.
- Conducting periodic meetings and reviewing the effectiveness of preventive measures.
- Maintaining records of complaints, inquiries, actions taken, and awareness programmes.
- Submitting reports and compliance documents to the appropriate authorities.

3.6 Responsibilities of the Anti-Ragging Squad

The Anti-Ragging Squad functions as an important monitoring and preventive mechanism. Its responsibilities include:

- Conducting regular and surprise inspections in classrooms, corridors, canteens, playgrounds, hostels, and other vulnerable areas.
- Identifying locations that may be prone to ragging.
- Responding promptly to complaints and providing immediate assistance to affected students.
- Reporting incidents and inspection findings to the Anti-Ragging Committee.
- Maintaining inspection and complaint records.
- Supporting awareness programmes and student orientation activities.

3.7 Reporting Mechanisms and Student Support

The presentation explained the procedures students should follow when they encounter or witness ragging.

Students were advised to report incidents immediately to the Principal, Head of Department, Anti-Ragging Committee, Anti-Ragging Squad, or Hostel Warden, as applicable.

The following national reporting facilities were highlighted:

- National Anti-Ragging Helpline: 1800-180-5522 (24×7).
- Email: helpline@antiragging.in
- Online grievance mechanism: UGC Anti-Ragging system/e-Samadhaan, where applicable.

Students were encouraged to provide relevant information, including the date, time, location, details of the incident, witnesses, and available evidence.

For serious incidents involving criminal conduct, students were informed about the need for appropriate police intervention and legal action.

3.8 Prevention and Promotion of Healthy Student Interaction

The programme emphasized that prevention is more effective when supported by continuous awareness and positive student relationships.

The following preventive activities were highlighted:

- Orientation programmes for newly admitted students and their parents.
- Anti-ragging posters, banners, and helpline displays.
- Seminars, workshops, debates, quizzes, skits, and poster-making activities.
- Mentor–mentee and buddy systems.
- Counselling and student-support services.
- Regular hostel awareness meetings.
- Student feedback and periodic monitoring.
- Encouragement of healthy fresher–senior interactions.

The importance of welcoming freshers, providing opportunities to showcase their talents, and encouraging senior students to act as mentors rather than intimidators was also emphasized.

4. Institutional Anti-ragging committee

The presentation highlighted the institutional structure established to strengthen anti-ragging activities.

The Anti-Ragging Committee includes representatives from institutional administration, faculty members, non-teaching staff, parents, and students.

The Anti-Ragging Squad comprises faculty members and student representatives who assist in monitoring, prevention, and reporting activities.

The participation of different stakeholders promotes shared responsibility and ensures that anti-ragging initiatives are implemented through a coordinated institutional approach.

The presentation also identified the following categories of institutional representatives:

- Management and administrative representatives.
- Principal, Director, Vice-Principal, and Heads of Departments.
- Faculty members and teaching staff.
- Non-teaching staff and hostel wardens.
- Parent representatives.
- Student representatives from different academic programmes and years.

This multidisciplinary composition helps improve communication, monitoring, student support, and accountability.

5. Anti-ragging committee Awareness Activities

The presentation described awareness and induction programmes as important institutional activities conducted every academic year.

The major implementation strategies include:

A. Academic-Year Induction

Orientation and induction sessions for newly admitted students and parents to explain anti-ragging regulations, institutional policies, and available reporting mechanisms.

B. Awareness and Education

Conducting seminars, workshops, quizzes, debates, poster presentations, and other educational activities to strengthen awareness among students.

C. Reporting and Support

Providing information about committee members, reporting procedures, and national helpline facilities to ensure that students can seek assistance whenever required.

D. Continuous Vigilance

Conducting hostel awareness meetings, monitoring activities, mentoring programmes, and feedback sessions to reinforce a ragging-free campus culture throughout the academic year.

6. Outcomes of the Programme

The following outcomes represent the intended educational and institutional results of the awareness programme:

1. Improved Awareness: Students gain a better understanding of what constitutes ragging and recognize that it includes physical, verbal, psychological, digital, and other forms of harassment.
2. Knowledge of Legal Provisions: Students become familiar with the UGC Regulations, 2009, and the disciplinary consequences associated with ragging.
3. Improved Reporting Awareness: Students are informed about institutional complaint channels, committee members, and the National Anti-Ragging Helpline.
4. Strengthened Institutional Mechanisms: Awareness of the functions of the Anti-Ragging Committee and Squad helps reinforce institutional monitoring and accountability.
5. Promotion of Student Safety: The programme encourages students to recognize their right to study in a safe and respectful environment.
6. Positive Peer Relationships: Emphasis on mentoring and healthy fresher–senior interaction promotes mutual respect and cooperation among students.
7. Encouragement of Responsible Behaviour: Students are encouraged to avoid activities that may cause humiliation, intimidation, or harm to others.
8. Enhanced Stakeholder Responsibility: Faculty members, parents, administrative staff, and student representatives are made aware of their respective roles in preventing ragging.
9. Strengthened Preventive Culture: Continuous awareness, monitoring, counselling, and reporting mechanisms contribute to developing a sustainable anti-ragging environment.

7. Impact Analysis

The impact of an Anti-Ragging Awareness Programme can be evaluated at individual, interpersonal, institutional, and societal levels.

7.1 Impact on Students

The programme is expected to improve students' understanding of their rights and responsibilities within the institution. Awareness of the different forms of ragging helps students identify inappropriate behaviour and distinguish healthy interaction from harassment.

It also encourages students to speak up, seek assistance, support affected individuals, and avoid participating in activities that may harm others.

Expected impact: Increased awareness, confidence in reporting, responsible conduct, and a greater sense of campus safety.

7.2 Psychological and Emotional Impact

Ragging can lead to anxiety, fear, embarrassment, social isolation, loss of confidence, and reduced academic concentration.

By emphasizing a supportive and respectful environment, the programme seeks to reduce these risks and encourage students to seek counselling and institutional assistance whenever required.

Expected impact: Improved emotional security, belongingness, peer support, and student well-being.

7.3 Impact on Institutional Environment

The formation and coordinated functioning of the Anti-Ragging Committee and Squad help establish clear responsibilities for prevention, monitoring, complaint handling, and corrective action.

Regular inspections, awareness programmes, and reporting mechanisms can strengthen institutional vigilance and accountability.

Expected impact: Improved institutional preparedness, stronger monitoring systems, and a safer academic environment.

7.4 Impact on Student Relationships

The programme promotes constructive interactions between senior and junior students by encouraging mentoring, guidance, cooperation, and mutual respect.

It discourages the misuse of seniority or authority and supports the development of healthy peer relationships.

Expected impact: Better student integration, improved interpersonal relationships, and a stronger sense of community.

7.5 Impact on Academic Performance

A safe and supportive campus environment can help students concentrate on their studies without fear of harassment or intimidation.

Reducing ragging-related stress and insecurity may contribute to improved attendance, classroom participation, academic engagement, and overall educational experience.

Expected impact: Better student participation, academic confidence, and continuity of learning.

8. Conclusion

The Anti-Ragging Awareness Programme serves as an important initiative towards creating a safe, inclusive, and student-friendly educational environment. By educating students about the UGC Regulations, 2009, explaining the different forms and consequences of ragging, and highlighting the responsibilities of institutional committees, the programme reinforces the importance of discipline, mutual respect, and student welfare.

The presentation emphasized that the prevention of ragging is not solely the responsibility of institutional authorities but a collective responsibility shared by students, faculty members, parents, and the entire academic community.

The effective functioning of the Anti-Ragging Committee and Squad, together with continuous awareness, monitoring, mentoring, counselling, and accessible reporting mechanisms, can contribute significantly to preventing ragging and protecting student well-being.

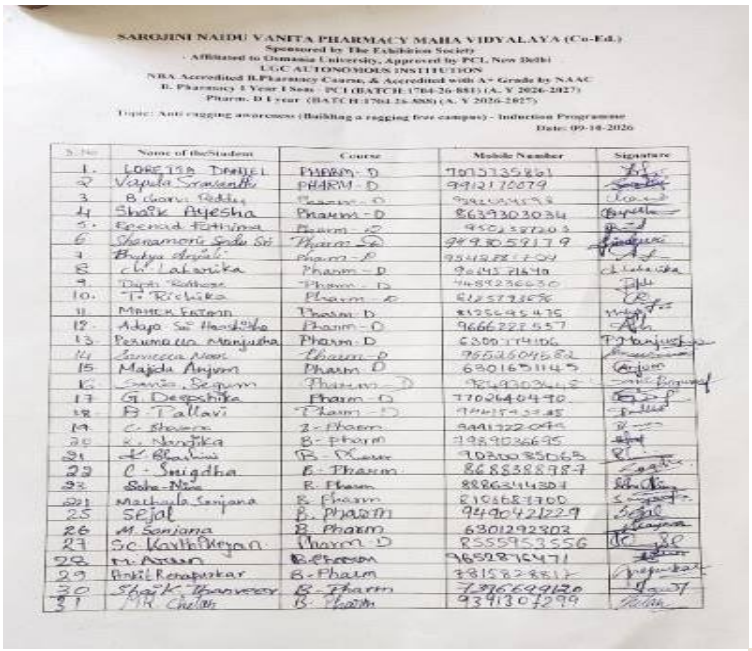

Ultimately, the programme promotes a culture in which every student feels safe, respected, valued, and supported throughout their academic journey.
